

Praise for

Sea Kayaking the Redwood Coast

“Northern California’s coastline is one of the world’s best sea kayaking locations. The diverse paddling conditions, a good balance of remoteness and accessibility make for real adventure sea kayaking. The stunning scenery and fascinating wildlife ensure a rewarding experience. The great advice contained in this guide will make your journey more enjoyable and safer. Whenever you go to a new area, you should always get advice from local paddlers. Well here it is!”

— Sean Morley, President, California Paddlesports Council;
Director, Golden Gate Sea Kayak Symposium

“The northern Pacific coast of California offers some of the finest and diversified paddling opportunities found anywhere! From gnarly surf, rock gardens and caves to calm waters and pristine mellow bays this area has a lot to offer the paddler. Paddling out of the protected harbor at Trinidad and rounding Trinidad Head on a BIG day is an experience to behold. Timid paddlers need not apply! While just up the road at Big Lagoon on that same day you can have a mellow paddle on a beautiful coastal lagoon. GREAT STUFF for all!”

— Steve Scherrer, Training & Technical Specialist,
Confluence Watersports

“It has been my great pleasure to see this small group of coastal paddlers blossom into the hardy band of Coastal Explorers that inhabit this gem of the Pacific Ocean. Thanks for letting me be a part of it.”

— Chris Mitchell, ACA Coastal Kayak L5 ITE;
BCU L4 Sea Coach and 5 Star awards